1. Language of the paper is very weak. It needs to be carefully proofread and revised. I would recommend the authors to ask a native speaker to read throughout the paper and check the language very carefully.
2. The objectives and significance of the study must be completely elaborated in details.
3. Please tell the readers which theory/theories support your study. Please explain this in depth in your literature review.
4. Methodology needs to be carefully rechecked. The design of the study must be added under a separate heading. Moreover, the participants section was not well-detailed. The authors are recommended to give more information about the participants number, age, gender, proficiency level, educational background, and the ways they were selected. In addition, it was not clear how the authors divided the participants into different group. How many participants were in each group. How did they were divided? Random or non-random?

You worked on an interesting topic but at the first glance it is full of grammatical mistakes and errors.

The academic quality of the paper is not acceptable for me since it suffers from many grammatical mistakes and APA style violations, it needs several major revisions. I list my comments as follows:

1. The Abstract section has several grammatical mistakes:

This study applied quasi-experimental design.

The instrument used in this research were the students speaking score from

The result indicated that there was significant difference in score between experimental (M=86.16, SD=4.444), and Control group [M=78.50, SD=42.65; $t(62)=7.031$, $p=0.000$].

2. The following references have no references:

The graduate Vocational high School students' have three options after pursuing a national secondary certificate in which they can; directly join the labor market by filling job vacancies available in industries related to their course of study. Work independently as entrepreneurs; or pursue higher education at tertiary institutions. The Indonesian Ministry of Education and Culture (MOEC) made a major policy decision on the proportion of general secondary schools and vocational secondary schools, with the proportion of vocational secondary schools being greater than that of general secondary schools, based on the premise that the growing economy of Indonesia requires more middle-level workers to graduate from secondary vocational schools than from general secondary schools, with the expectation that link and match between vocational education and the world of work will be strengthened, and graduates from vocational secondary schools will be absorbed by the world of work.

3. There are obvious grammatical mistakes in the following sentences:

This is due to the fact that the program itself are designed to prepare the graduates to be ready to access the labor market.

YouTube is one of the social media platform that is getting popularity nowadays.

4. Follow APA rules:

The study from Inderawati & Petrus (2021)

5. Use small letters:

To the best of the knowledge of the researchers, only a few numbers of studies have been conducted to give quantitative evidence on the utilization of YouTube in English Speaking Classes, more specifically to students attending Vocational High Schools in Indonesian contexts.

5. Which theory does support your study? Explain it carefully in the literature review.

6. The participants section is weak. Which level?? Which gender??? Age of the participants???

A good revision is need in this part.

7. A separate section is needed for the Research Instruments.

8. Also, a separate section is needed for the Data Analysis.

9. Explain Data Collection Procedures in details.

10. Revise the following sentences since they contain grammatical mistakes:

Each of the components score in the range from 1-5. The results of interrater reliability of the two groups shows that there was a strong correlation between the scores judged by the two raters. Mackey & Gass (2005) suggested to calculate the interrater reliability on the data used for the research, not the data used for the training.

11. Discussion is weak and short; it should be expanded by providing some justifications for the research results.

12. You have to provide some convincing implications for the results.

13. Expand conclusion and mention the limitations and suggestions of the study.

14. There are numerous grammatical mistakes in the paper, reread the whole paper and correct them all.

15. The reference list is not based on APA rules at all; you violated the APA rules several times in the paper especially in citing the references; you need to follow the APA rules in all parts of the paper.

The discussion must shed lights on the reasons and justifications of the results. The authors must also do a comparison between the results of this study with previously-conducted researches. Another important factor is that the authors must explain what something new their study add to literature review. The last crucial point is that the discussion must be connected to theoretical frameworks. In discussion, the authors must tell which theory support their study. 6. Please add more implications, suggestions for future researchers and limitations of the study. 7. References are not according to APA.

I have made necessary corrections, given my replies on each of composition comments, and submitted them through the OPS website. However, when I went back to the home menu, I found out that there is a mistake in the position of the author's name (attached is the profs).

Kindly help me to make sure that the positions of the authors' name is:
