REPORT

Section of the Manuscript	Comments and Notes
Title- Abstract- Summary	No comments in this section. The title seems appropriate. The abstract should be in line with the review of the paper.
Introduction and Literature Review	The introduction is very extensive and with very general ideas. This introduction should be summarized in little more than 1 page. In addition, some ideas are repeated in the discussion section of the article. These two sections are seven pages of the article. The research questions are too general and therefore difficult to answer. They should be made more precise.

Research Methods	The qualitative analysis is poorly explained and the results are unclear. Comparing the two types of analysis, the quantitative analysis is much more extensive and provides more information. The categories of the qualitative analysis should be better explained and shown with more examples.
Research Findings	The results of the quantitative analysis are correctly presented in the paper, except for some necessary clarifications on some tables. The results of the qualitative analysis are very anecdotal; this part should be reviewed in depth. In addition, both analyses are very unbalanced because the quantitative analysis takes up more space than the qualitative analysis. It can even be considered a purely quantitative analysis.
Discussion	The discussion repeats ideas from the introduction and these are very general. It assumes ideas that should be the subject of the study presented in this article. It should be abbreviated and enter in depth into a discussion with other research with similar objectives.
Conclusion and Suggestions	Conclusions are scarce since some ideas that should appear in this section appear in other sections, e.g., in discussion.
References and Citation	Some references are incomplete, missing volume and/or number. The doi are referenced in two different formats. In the books sometimes the city and state of edition appear and sometimes they do not.
Language	I am not a native English speaker, but it seems correctly written. There is some mistake in Syarafal Anam's name, please check the document.
